HERE IS PROGRAM OF INTEREST TO WOMAN'S CLUB MEMBERS

Local club women will be particularly interested in the program of the G. F. W. C. biennial convention that opened yesterday, June 3, and continues until the evening of June 13. The convention will be formally opened this evening at 8 o'clock, with Mrs. Thomas G. Winters, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Joseph F. Sartori, chairman of local biennial board, presiding.

Mrs. Winters will deliver the address of the evening; subject, "What Makes a Nation Great." From 10 until 11:30 a reception will be held at the Hotel Biltmore by the California local biennial board in honor of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Wednesday, June 4
From 9:45 until 12:30, at Burdette hall, reports of convention committees, officers and standing committees will be heard.

During intermission the Pioneer Workers will have a luncheon at the Biltmore hotel, with Mrs. Dimies T. S. Denison presiding.

During the afternoon, with Mrs. S. W. Jennings presiding, greetings will be received from Past Presidents Mrs. Dimies T. S. Denison, Mrs. Philip N. Moore, Mrs. Percy V. Pennypacker and Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles; Miss Marie Miller, overseas unit; from honorary vice-presidents, and from affiliated organizations.

At 8 o'clock, State Presidents' evening.

Thursday, June 5—Press and Legislative Day
At 9:30, in Philharmonic auditorium, with Mrs. Wallace T. Perham and Mrs. Edward Franklin White presiding, reports of standing committees will be continued.

At 11 o'clock, with Mrs. White presiding, discussion of legislative resolutions.

During intermission, 12:30 until 2:30, the following luncheons will be held at the Biltmore hotel: Department of legislation, division of civil service, and department of press and publicity.

Hugh S. Magill, LL.D., general secretary International Council of Religious Education, "Strengthening the Moral Forces of the Nation."

Saturday, June 7—Play Day
"Here's to the world, the merry old world,
To its days both bright and blue;
Here's to our future, be what it may,
And here's to our play day with you."

Twelve-all-day excursion trips—to mountains, valley clubs, seashore clubs; little journeys to club houses; motion picture productions, and the Mission Play.

Sunday, June 8
Memorial service, 4:30 p.m., at Hollywood Bowl, followed by concert at sunset.

In Friday's issue will appear a brief outline of the daily programs for next week.

Local club women will be interested in the fact that one of the Play Day trips includes a luncheon at the Redondo Woman's club and a drive through the local oil fields to San Pedro.

Huddleston Knows Furniture

the local people every advantage in the purchase of furniture. It is the practice of this house to handle both new and used furniture—nothing is overlooked in completing a most serviceable scheme.

Huddleston, friendly man and respected merchant, was born 'way down in Mississippi. From early boyhood he was of an adventurous type. So he sailed forth to conquer new worlds and see strange things. During his seven years' residence in the Dominion of Canada Mr. Huddleston had a rather unique fling at romance and adventure. While living at Edmonton, in northern Alberta, he became a member of the famous Royal Northwest Mounted Police, and remained with that renowned body for three years. Being a man of vigorous parts, it is little wonder that he came in contact with the Mounted Police of the Northwest.

EAT HERE—IT'LL BE GOOD

Another one of those wonderful dinners will be served Friday, June 6, from 5 until 7 p.m., by the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church. How's this sound? Meat loaf, creamed new potatoes, new green beans, cabbage salad, olives, bread and butter, coffee, and real eastern CHERRY PIE. It'll be worth four bits, all right.

OBSERVATIONS

WHAT a time these national committees are having. No sooner is it hinted that LaFollette intends to run on an independent ticket than a flood of publicity shoots out from Washington charging him with court-ship support from the Communists? Wise old LaFollette repudiates this by refusing to attend the St. Paul convention where Communists will foregather in the guise of progressives.

That puts the buck back in the hands of the old guard and they declare that the Wisconsin senator is inconsistent because he supported the Soviet so long in the Senate and now rebukes friends of the Soviet in the United States.

In big politics it doesn't make much difference what you do—you're wrong.

THE greatest speed-demons in the world went out on the track at Indianapolis Memorial Day to race for 500 miles. Every one of them knew the danger in racing at a speed of almost 100 miles an hour for a distance that brings terrific strain on an automobile. A calm, smiling man was referee of the event. He knew the danger to the drivers. But with a consideration characteristic of the man, he had done what he could about it. The drivers did not know it until the race was over. But the referee had personally insured every one of the drivers for $10,000 against accident. A pretty fair referee that—Henry Ford.

THERE has been much international sportsmanship—and lack of it—to comment on during the past month. The latest event has to do with Stuart McClaren, British aviator, whose plane crashed down in India and temporarily put him out of the air race around the world. It has to do with this British aviator and the United States navy. And it ought to make every American's chest puff out with pride.

McClaren had a spare plane 300 miles from the place at which his traveling plane was injured beyond repair. Immediately officers of the American navy, with the officials' sanction at Washington, cabled McClaren that an American gunboat would be only too happy to transport his spare plane to the scene of the crash, thus enabling the British aviator to continue his flight.

McClaren accepted the offer with the following cabled comment: "Hats off to the Stars and Stripes for sportsmanship." Now isn't that great stuff?

THERE will be more excitement at the Republican convention in Cleveland than has been generally anticipated. Which is by way of introducing you to Dr. Marion Leroy Burton, president of the University of Michigan, doctor of divinity, doctor of philosophy, practical idealist, demon, for accomplishment, and probably one of the few really great orators in the United States today.

Dr. Burton will make the nominating speech for Calvin Coolidge. Those Americans who have been fortunate enough to have heard this red-headed intellectual dynamo speak are prepared for one of the greatest orations ever made at a national convention. Those who do not know Burton may deem it a bit premature to announce that the forthcoming oration will equal or outshine the "glum knight" address with which Bob Ingersoll placed in nomination the name of James G. Blaine, and the equally famous "cross of gold and crown of thorns" oration of William Jennings Bryan which stamped the Democratic convention in 1896.

But that statement does not seem an unsafe prediction to anyone who has sat enthralled by the marvelously forceful, clear, ringing oratory of Burton.

There is certainly a treat in store for this country. It is hinted at Washington, and certainly possible that Burton will be the vice-presidential nominee, securing that nomination by the sheer force of his oratory and the dynamic force of his personality.

Let it be said here that the country would be fortunate with such a man as Burton in the vice-president's office—not particularly because he could accomplish so much as vice-president, but because the vice-presidency might be a stepping stone to the presidency.

Since the forceful personality of Theodore Roosevelt dominated American politics, we can think of no man whose characteristics better fit him for the highest office this nation has to offer.

Burton is fifty years old. We venture the prediction that you will hear much from him in the next couple of decades.

It was a happy thought that struck upon the idea of bestowing upon Burton the honor of making the Coolidge nomination address, this bringing him into the spotlight of our national life.

FIELD ESTABLISHES NEW HIGH RECORD WITH 61,000 BBLs. DAILY

With fifteen new wells pouring oil into the tanks, the Torrance-Lomita field broke all records for daily production last week, when the yield passed the 60,000-barrel mark. The daily production was 61,000 barrels.

The following new wells were put on production over the week-end: Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil company, Torrance No. 44, second tier well north of Redondo road, 450 barrels at 3780 feet; Shell Oil company, Bleumie No. 1, Redondo road and Normandie avenue, 650 barrels at 3830 feet; Shell Oil company, Kettler No. 10, 100 barrels at 3560 feet; Petroleum Securities corporation, Marble No. 13, center of Marble holdings, 400 barrels at 3770 feet.

BAREFOOT BOY AT CHILDREN'S SPECIAL SHOW

Special Program at the Torrance Theatre
Next Saturday

Another special matinee for children will be held at the Torrance theatre Saturday afternoon. Mrs. McVey has arranged a special program. These matinees were inaugurated at the behest of the Woman's Club of Torrance and will be continued as long as the patronage warrants.

Next Saturday Sweeney's Synco-pated orchestra of Gardena will furnish the music. The orchestra is composed entirely of high school students.

Bernice Elman will play the violin and dance.

Torrance Swindell, soloist of Torrance will entertain. The Roberts Juvenile trio of Los Angeles will appear.

These acts will be held over for the evening performance. The feature film for Saturday will be the picture of John Greenleaf Whittier's poem, "The Barefoot Boy."

STANDARD HAS OIL SHOWINGS AT TEST WELL

Sand Picked Up at 3510
Feet on Weston
Ranch

Hopes for a commercial oil well on the Weston ranch in Lomita were revived again Sunday when it was definitely learned that a showing of oil was picked up at the Standard Oil company's wildcat well on West Weston street at 3510 feet.

The company is adhering to its usual policy regarding complete information on wildcat wells, so the extent of the oil showings is not revealed.

The well was cemented off at 3520 feet. Mining bureau representatives tested the cement job Sunday and found it wet. The well will be re-cemented.
